

ELENA BONTA

TEACHING ENGLISH: a pragmatic approach

2nd edition (revised and enlarged)

CONTENTS

Foreword	7
I. CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK	9
I.1. Pragmatics – an introduction	9
I.2. Pragmatics and language teaching	11
I.3. Pragmatic competence	14
II. LANGUAGE LEARNING AND TEACHING	20
II.1. Preliminaries	20
II.2. Language learning theories	24
II.3. Language teaching	32
II.4. Teaching approaches and methods	38
III. FROM RECEPTION TO PRODUCTION. TEACHING SKILLS	57
III.1. Developing listening comprehension	58
III.2. The reading lesson	65
III.3. Speaking in a second language	73
III.4. Developing writing skills	86
IV. TEACHING VOCABULARY	99
V. TEACHING GRAMMAR	111
VI. DEVELOPING CULTURAL AWARENESS	125
VII. LESSON PLANNING	127
VIII. CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT	135
VIII.1. Climate for learning	135
VIII.2. Organization of the classroom	136
VIII.3. The role of the teacher	137
VIII.4. The role of the students	140
VIII.5. Attending to the students. Establishing good rapport	142

VIII.6. Choosing a textbook.	143
VIII.7. Teaching space	145
VIII.8. Teacher talking time (TTT)	146
VIII.9. Eye contact	147
VIII.10. Body language	147
VIII.11. Classroom interaction	148
VIII.12. The art of questioning	152
VIII.13. Raising students' motivation	153
VIII.14. Timing and pace of activities	154
VIII.15. Dealing with large and mixed- ability classes	156
VIII.16. Dealing with disruptive behaviour	157
VIII.17. Teaching aids and materials	158
VIII.18. Developing student autonomy	161
VIII.19. Student identity construction	162
VIII.20. Giving effective instructions	162
VIII.21. Managing errors in the language class	163
VIII.22. Teaching through games	166
VIII. 23. Reflective teaching	167
VIII.24. Monitoring the warm-up moments	169
VIII.25. Use of "fillers" ¹	171
IX. MICROTEACHING	172
X. IN THE CLASSROOM	181
GLOSSARY	188
BIBLIOGRAPHY	202
Appendix 1	220
Appendix 2	223
Appendix 3	223
Appendix 4	225

¹ Scrivener, J. 1994. Learning Teaching, Hong Kong: Macmillan Heinemann, p. 105